New lease of life for renowned Buck Inn, Buckden

After plenty of interest and several offers, former 18th century coaching inn 'The Buck Inn' has found new tenants and is set to be re-established as a traditional Dales Inn

Offering numerous facilities for tourists, walkers and locals alike, the 14-bedroom inn has historically been a central point of the Buckden community and surrounding areas, but unfortunately has been closed for some time...until now.

New owners Kevin and Michelle Edwards are delighted to be taking on the exciting project and have been working hard during the past few months to inject new life into the cherished local inn.

Michelle commented: "Initially it's about giving the building some TLC, including a refurbishment schedule for the letting rooms. We're working really hard to re-establish this pub at the heart of the community. Kevin is working with local and regional brewers to make sure visitors get a great choice of beer, from a range of brewers, we're blessed to have so many good ones to choose from round here. At the same time, we've developed a menu that is all about good home cooking". Michelle added: "We're excited about people coming to see what we've created and are confident they'll like what they find."
