Re: your donation of £2098.35 (£1784.60 + £313.75 of Gift Aid) on 31/01/2015

Dear Jane,

We wanted to write to you and those at the Buckden Village Institute today for many reasons, because this is not just about us saying thank you, it's letting everyone who has received help and support through your donation have a voice, and letting you know what a difference you've made.

The true cost of Ebola can be found in the people affected; this is a disease that has torn communities apart. 16 year old Lydia lost her family and found herself isolated from her community. Now because of your donation we can help more and more people like her.

DEC Member agencies are on the ground right now, providing cleaning kits and protective clothing. They are training communities with awareness and prevention methods, helping to stop the spread of Ebola and giving all those at risk the empowerment to keep themselves and their families' safe. And thanks to your help over the coming months we are going to be doing more and more.

Your generous act today will go a long way to changing someone's life, maybe even saving it. That person may not be able to write to you directly and say thank you, but at least we can on their behalf. Even if you feel your generosity does not need to be thanked, we want to say so anyway.

So thank you.

Yours sincerely
