

We need your memories!

The Upper Wharfedale Research project needs your help. Do you have documents, artefacts, photographs that will shed a light on life in Upper Wharfedale around 1918?

The Upper Wharfedale Arts and Literature Society has embarked on a research project to capture life in our villages around 1918. In spite of this being only 100 years ago, so much detail about the day to day lives of people living here then is being lost. What did they eat? How did they farm? How did the war affect them? What was a day in their life like?

Do you have anything that we can use to throw a light on this fascinating aspect of social history? We are mounting an exhibition over the weekend of July 14th/14th 2018 in Grassington Town Hall to share our findings with the community
